AT the Court at St. James's, the 7th of January, 1784.

PRESENT,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

THIS Day the Right Honourable Philip Earl of Chesterfield, was, by His Majesty's Command, sworn of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, and took his Place at the Board accordingly.

St. James's, January 9.

The King was this Day pleased to confer the Honour of Knighthood on Lieutenant-Colonel Henry Augustus Montagu Colby.

Whitehall, January 10.

EXTRACT of a Dispatch to His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, from his Excellency Major-General James Stuart, Commander in Chief of His Majesty's and the East India Company's Forces on the Coast of Coromandel, dated Camp, One Mile South of Cuddalore, June 27, 1783, received Yesterday by Captain Thomas of the 23d Light Dragoons, who arrived in His Majesty's Ship Medea.

I DO myself the Honor of acquainting you, by this separate Letter, of the very signal Victory obtained over the French and Tippoo Sahib's Auxiliaries, by the Troops of His Majesty, and of the Honourable East-India Company, under my Command, on June 13th, being the 4th Day after our Operations began South of Cuddalore. The Particulars will be found in the Form of a Letter, inclosed to your Lordship, nearly the same as I had the Honor to address to this Government.

Every Account which I have received induces me to believe, that the Enemy, in killed and wounded upon this Occasion, suffered in Europeans to the Extent of 42 Officers, and 600 Men.

I do myself the Honor to transmit to your Lordship the General Orders to the Army, and the separate Instructions to the Officers commanding the Four Divisions of the Army in the Action of that Day.

There is also another Letter inclosed, containing the Particulars of the total Repulse of the Enemy in their Attack upon our Parallel, the Morning of the 25th of June; an Action which gives additional Lustre to the Steadiness and Bravery of this Army. The Particulars are also nearly the same with what was my Duty to acquaint this Government of. The Name of the Officer who commanded the Sortée, and now our Prisoner, is Monsr. Des Damas, Chevalier de Malte, Colonel of the Regiment of Aquitaine. There are, besides, Two Captains and One or Two Subaltern Officers, Prisoners. The total Europeans of the Enemy, killed, wounded or Prisoners, are reported to exceed 400.

I enclose to your Lordship a Return of the Killed and Wounded on our Part, which, I am happy to find on this Occasion, are in no great Number. In this Sortée of the Enemy, it happened that a small Party in the Dark got over one particular Place of the Trenches, where Two chance Shots killed one Jemidar, and badly wounded another, both of whom carried the Colours of the 24th Bengal Regiment, which fell from their Hands, and in the Scramble, some French Soldiers stole off upper-ceived with the Two Stand of Colours. But your Lordship will see, both from the Return of our inconsiderable Loss, and from the Narrative annexed, that the Honor of the Regiment was in no Shape affected by this little dark Exploit, which, as I am informed, the Enemy make such a Parade of.

Your Lordship will know, from the separate Dispatches, that the Army under my Command were in the Impossibility of proceeding towards Cuddalore with Effect, until May the 28th, when the Rice and other necessary Articles were landed, and received from the Ship at Conjemeer; and that on our coming to the high Ground, near Pondicherry, we received certain Information that Monsr. Suffrein had found the Means to send Supplies of Stores and Provisions under an Escort superior in Force, as I believe, to the Escort with our main Convoy expected from Madras, and upon which every Thing turned. Some of the French Ships were indeed (from our Camps) seen at Anchor. I nevertheless continued the March, in the Way I fixed in my own Mind for Months before, and getting round that Side of Cuddalore where the Enemy expected us, I fixed this as our ultimate Encampment in the Afternoon of the 7th of June.

To speak of the Enemy's Strength in Europeans only, the French, my Lord, at little more than a Musquet Shot from us now in Cuddalore, are upwards of 2,500 * Regulars of the Old Establishment, besides what M. Suffrein, who is now here with 19 Sail at Anchor, has in his Power to land at an Hour's Notice; and, previous to the late Sally, he had landed upwards of 1500 Land Troops or Marines.

I take the Liberty, my Lord, to transmit to your Lordship what I judged as a Mark of private Gratitude, as well as public Duty, to give out in general Orders to this brave Army, in full Confidence that your Lordship will do them the Honor to communicate to His Majesty whatever you think proper, and particularly what regards the Detachment of His Majesty's 15th and 16th Regiments of His Electoral Subjects, and to Colonel Wangenheim who commanded them.

Upon the Whole, I request your Lordship to lay before His Majesty my most humble Recommendation of this brave Army to His Majesty's most gracious Favor, as highly deserving of it. And as a Mark of that Favor that His Majesty will be graciously pleased to approve of the Promotions which, as commanding His Majesty's Troops, I have taken the Liberty to make, in regular Succession by Seniority, to Vacancies during the present very severe Service, for such it has been in every Sense of the Word.

The Hon. Lieutenant-Colonel Cathcart, as your Lordship will perceive, has had very great Merit at the Head of the Corps of Grenadiers both on the 13th and 25th. He will have the Honor to deliver this Letter; and there is none more capable to supply any Information, which in the Hurry I may have omitted. I beg Leave to recommend him to His Majesty as an Officer attached to his Profession, and of very good Abilities.

[N. B. The original Dispatch, of which the above is a Duplicate brought by the Medea, was entrusted to Lieutenant-Colonel Cathcart, who is now on his Passage from India in the Pondicherry.]

* July, 1783. It has been since found from the Returns, that the French Regulars and Dutch Europeans, exclusive of the Marines, exceeded 4000.

HALFPENNY HALFPENNY 1796

Extract of the Letter first referred to in the preceding Dispatch, containing the Particulars of the Action on the 13th June, 1783.

I Moſt ſincerely congratulate your Lordſhip on the ſucceſsful Efforts of this brave Army, in carrying at one Stroke the Whole of the Out-Poſts and Redoubts of the Enemy, with * 18 Pieces of Artillery mounted on them. Their Loſs in Europeans killed and wounded, according to the Priſoners Report, being † 26 Officers and 600 Men. We have alſo loſt many excellent Officers and brave Men.

On the preceding Day (the 12th) I called as a Council of War the two Officers next in Command to me, Major General Bruce and Colonel Stuart. I acquainted them of the State of our Affairs in general; the Letters I had received from the Admiral repreſenting the ſickly Condition of his Men, and the State of the Water, which might oblige him to return to Madras; alſo the Approach of the French Fleet; but above all, the indefatigable Induſtry viſible in the vaſt Works they were making on the high Grounds and Lines, in Communication with the Poſt commonly called Brickmyre's, thus ſtretching along the Neck by which we muſt approach the Place; and I requeſted General Bruce and Colonel Stuart freely to ſpeak their Minds. I had called the Chief Engineer and the Commanding Officers of the Bengal and Coaſt Artillery as deliberative, deſiring to know in their different Departments if they were in Readineſs, ſo far as regarded Materials for cloſing the Redoubts after we ſhould get Poſſeſſion, and to form a firſt Parallel, and as to Guns, with a ſufficient Supply of Stores for the Enterprize. They agreed that every Thing was in Readineſs, and we were unanimouſly of Opinion, that there was not an Hour to be loſt in driving the French from all their Out-Poſts into Cuddelore, or under the Guns.

I immediately preſented the Plan I meant to follow in effecting our Purpoſe, a Copy of which I have the Honour of incloſing. It was in general moſt exactly followed. Lieut. Colonel Kelly, in the preciſe Moment agreed on, got Poſſeſſion of the Poſts of the Enemy on the Bandipollum Hills, with their Guns, and Lieut. Colonel Cathcart, at the Head of the Grenadiers, ſupported by Colonel Stuart, commanding the advanced Picquets on the Left, conſiſting of the Remains of the 73d Regiment under Captain Lamont, and Two Battalions of Sepoys, made a Movement to turn the Enemy's right Flank.

In advancing they ſuſtained ſuch a heavy Fire, and the Ground ſo difficult, that with great Judgement Colonel Stuart covered his People until he could better reconnoitre, and ſome further Diſpoſition could be taken to approach the Enemy from different Quarters nearly about the ſame Time. He ſent me a Report of his Situation, and I gave Orders in Conſequence to the Reſerve, under Colonel Gordon, to make a Movement in Advance to their Left, and to Major General Bruce to march from the Right in the Direction of the Redoubt, if the Ground could admit of it.

The General had very properly poſted Lieut. Colonel Edmondſton upon the Sand Hills near the Sea to ſupport the Four Braſs Eighteens, and prevent our being flanked on that Side.

Upon further Information, that the Redoubt which principally annoyed the Grenadiers was to be got at in the Rear, Orders were given for the Grenadiers, the Reſerve and the Right, under General Bruce, to cloſe upon the Enemy with their Muſquetry, leaving their Guns under Cover. I deſired the Commanding Officer of Artillery to fire Three Guns as a Signal, and to continue a heavy Fire for Five Minutes on the Enemy's Redoubt on the Front oppoſite to Colonel Stuart, and the Grenadiers, whilſt the Reſerve under Colonel Gordon was moving on; upon our Fire ceaſing, the Attack on all Sides to begin.

The Reſerve, which conſiſted chiefly of the Remains of His Majeſty's 101ſt, and of the Detachment from the 15th and 16th Hanoverians, with Five Companies of Captain Muirhead's Battalion of Sepoys, advanced in the beſt Order imaginable, under the heavieſt Fire of Muſquetry, Round and Grape, from the Enemy, that I ever beheld. The greater Part had got within the Enemy's Entrenchments; many of our Officers fell there.

The Detachment of His Majeſty's Hanoverians, under Lieutenant-Colonel Wangenheim and Major Varrennius, behaved moſt remarkably well. The Major fell in the Attempt. The Company of Grenadiers and Light Infantry of His Majeſty's 101ſt, and the Officers of that Corps, and the Officers and Sepoys of the 20th Carnatic Battalion, ſhewed the greateſt Spirit and Steadineſs; and if the other Men of the 101ſt had ſeconded the Efforts of their Officers and their Grenadiers and Light Infantry, there is not a Doubt but the Buſineſs would have been over at once; but they did not; and our People on that Attack, were for a certain Time driven back, and purſued to a conſiderable Diſtance by the Enemy. However, at that preciſe Time, when the French were in the Purſuit, our Grenadiers, under Lieutenant-Colonel Cathcart and Major Moore, with Colonel Stuart and Captain Lamont, with the precious Remains of the 73d, entered the Redoubt on the Side where it was not entirely cloſed, and not only took Poſſeſſion of it, but puſhed forward to a Poſt called Brickmyre's, conſiderably in Advance, and were for ſome Time in Poſſeſſion of it, with the Guns, but obliged to quit, upon freſh Troops pouring in upon them.

Our People kept hold of the firſt Redoubt, as commanding or enfilading every Thing in Front or to the Right of it, and therefore a good Point to go from in our Approaches; it was ordered to be cloſed by the Chief Engineer as ſoon as poſſible. The Havock done by our Guns from the Heights now appeared plain; and having thus ſecured, by Lieutenant-Colonel Kelly and his Brigade, the commanding Points of the Bandipollum Hills, giving an Opening to the large Tank that lies between them, and ſeeing from thence, in Reverſe, the whole Bound Hedge of Cuddelore; and having ſecured a Poſt to approach from of ſuch Importance as before mentioned, I thought it ſufficient for the Day, conſidering the Numbers of our brave Men that had fallen.

The Spirit of our People, even after ſo ſevere an Action, was ſo undaunted, that I was urged to proceed further, and to drive the Whole of the Enemy into the Fort the ſame Evening, although we muſt have had both heavy Guns and Muſquetry to encounter with; but I declined it, both for the above Reaſon, and becauſe, from my Knowledge of the French, I was ſure, that after a Night's Reflection of what had paſſed, they would not try a ſecond Day out of the Fort. It happened ſo, for they abandoned in the Courſe of the Night all their remaining Out-Poſts, and drew off their Guns, excepting Three, which we brought into the Redoubt. The incloſed Return will ſhew your Lordſhip the Guns we have taken from the Enemy; Two of them are upon the Hill, and Two in the Redoubt, ready to open againſt their former Maſters.

I ſhall, in a ſeparate Letter, ſo ſoon as I know it with Preciſion, acquaint your Lordſhip of the Loſs on our Side. It is with infinite Regret that I mention the Loſs of Captain Douglas, Deputy-Adjutant-General, as an Officer, and as a Member of Society; and the ſame of Lieutenant Peter Campbell, my Firſt Aid-de-Camp. Major Varrennius fell arranging his Men, advancing to the Redoubt. The Honourable Captain Lindſey, commanding the Grenadiers of the 73d, was wounded and taken Priſoner, refuſing to ſuffer his own People to remain behind with him. ‡ In a Word, nothing I believe in Hiſtory ever exceeded the Heroiſm and Coolneſs of this Army in general, viſible to every one, for it laſted from Four in the Morning to Two in the Afternoon.

* Upon examining the Returns, the Number taken was 16.

† It was afterwards found they had 42 Officers killed or wounded.

‡ Captain Lindſey died of his Wounds at Cuddalore.

The

The Admiral with the whole Fleet is now at an Anchor near our Rice Ships, and by our last Accounts Monſ. Suffrein was seen by him to the Southward, with Fifteen Ships of the Line and Two Frigates.

I have written to Major General Burgoyne to give Orders (with the previous Information to Government) that 200 Hanoverians, with all the recovered Men and Recruits belonging to His Majeſty's Troops, now at or near the Preſidency, be ſent with the utmoſt Diſpatch to us by Sea; and I have recommended to order the ſame, regarding the Recruits and recovered Men of the Company's Europeans.

The Army lay upon their Arms for Twenty Hours, after the Buſineſs of the 13th was over, and until I had the Means to bring our Camp further in Advance, now that we had ſilenced the Guns planted on the Enemy's Out-Poſts. Our Right is now within a Mile of Cuddalore; but as I had the Honor in a former Letter to repreſent to the Select Committee, and having nearly a Brigade to cover our Rear and Landing Place, and ſo large a Circuit of Poſts to occupy in Front, added to our Loſs in Action, and Sickneſs incident to Fatigue, I repeat that unleſs the Force under Colonel Fullarton does come nearer to co-operate and to take off ſome Part of the heavy Duty that now falls to our Share, this Army will, in a very ſhort Time, be melted to nothing through Sickneſs and other Accidents.

Camp, S. of Cuddalore,
June 15, 1783.

Letter to the Select Committee at Madraſs, containing the Particulars of the Repulſe of the French, on the 25th of June, 1783.

IT is with great additional Satisfaction that I give you the Account of the Repulſe the Enemy met with in a Sortie they made early this Morning. We have taken their Commanding Officer, Chevalier de Damas, Colonel (Maitre de Camp) of the Regiment of Aquitaine; likewiſe a Captain and a Lieutenant. There is 1 Major, 2 Captains, and 2 Subalterns killed. The Priſoners are about 150. I don't know how many of the Enemy have been killed or carried off wounded; but this I know that it was a moſt complete Route. Our Loſs is Major Cotgrove, Lieut. Grueber of the Bengal Detachment, and Lieut. Ochterloney miſſing, Capt. Williamſon wounded, and about 20 Rank and File killed or wounded.

Upon the Return of the French Fleet, and our's not appearing, I was ſure that they would take every Occaſion to annoy us: We were prepared for it, as they have found to their Experience. From what I can collect of the Priſoners, the Troops engaged were of their beſt Sort, the Regiment of Aquitaine and other old Corps, beſides Volunteers from all the other Corps, and Two Battalions of Sepoys. Their principal Impreſſion ſeems to have been directed to the Right of our Parallel; but they had no Idea of our having completed a Redoubt there, which, with the Two Guns galled them very ſeverely. Our People behaved wonderfully well, and the Sepoys mixed their's with the French Bayonets: Nothing could exceed their Steadineſs. Colonel Gordon commanded in the Trenches with Lieutenant-Colonel Cathcart and Major Cotgrove; only one half of the Grenadiers were with the out-laying Pickets, but Major Moore with the other half was inſtantly on the Ground from their Advanced Camp, and they proved an excellent Support to the Parallel on the Right.

From the Character of Monſ. Suffrein, and the infinite Superiority of the preſent Means on the Part of the French now that we are left to ourſelves, I expect a daily Viſit of this Sort from them, and ſhall be prepared to give them a ſimilar Reception; but I cannot too often repeat, that the Severity of the preſent Duty both on Officers and Men is become almoſt inſupportable.

As to my own Uneaſineſs of Mind, conſidering many Things which I need not detail to you, and that it is now Nine Days ſince our Fleet and Proviſion Ships left us, and having no Certainty of Colonel Fullarton's Movements towards me, in Conſequence of my Order of the 10th Inſtant; I ſay that, on the Whole of theſe Conſiderations, my Mind is upon the Rack without a Moment's Reſt.

The ſteady undaunted Valour of this Army is my preſent Reſource in the Midſt of ſurrounding Difficulties, if the Admiral does not ſoon appear.

The high Idea I entertain of the Merit of the Army hasted me to expreſs my Sentiments at ſome Length in this Day's General Orders, both of their Conduct on the 13th, and in the Action of this Day. I ſhall have the Honor of tranſmitting to your Lordſhip, &c. a Copy, together with every Paper of any Conſequence which you have not hitherto been furniſhed with, owing to the Uncertainty of Conveyance ſince we loſt Sight of the Admiral.

I pray your Lordſhip, &c. to forward the Means of Conveyance by Sea to us for the Detachment of 200 Hanoverians, with the Recruits and recovered Men of His Majeſty's and the Company's Troops, together with Money, Rice and Horſe Grain, our only Dependence for all theſe Things being upon you.

GENERAL ORDERS

By Major-General James Stuart, containing his Thanks to the Army.

THE Commander in Chief having taken Time minutely to inveſtigate the Conduct and Execution of the Orders and Plan in attacking the Enemy's Out-Poſts, Lines, and Redoubts, on the 13th Inſtant, with the comparative Strength in Numbers and Poſition of the Enemy, compoſed almoſt entirely of the beſt Regular Troops of France, takes this Occaſion to give it as his Opinion to this brave Army in general, that it is not to be equalled by any Thing he knows, or has heard of, in modern Hiſtory, whether we look to the Extent and entire Succeſs, or to the National Importance of that Day's compleat and important Victory. He takes this Occaſion to return his Thanks to Major-General Bruce, to Lieutenant-Colonel Cathcart, and Major Moore, of the Corps of Grenadiers, and to Colonel Stuart, who ſupported them with the Piquets of the Left, and under whoſe Command the French Redoubt was moſt ſucceſsfully entered and carried; to Colonel Gordon, who commanded the Reſerve; to Colonel Pearſe, and the different Field Officers in the various Stations; to Lieutenant-Colonel Roſs, Chief Engineer, to whoſe Abilities he is much indebted; and to Lieutenant Colonel Kelly, who, with the Fourth Brigade, led by the two Grenadier Companies, and the reſt of the Honourable Company's European Infantry of the Second Line, under the Command of Captains Collins, Sale, and Bonneveaux, ſo ably and opportunely poſſeſſed himſelf of the Enemy's Poſt on the Hills; to Lieutenant-Colonel Elliott, and Major Mackay, under whom our Artillery was ſo well directed that Day; to Captain Lamont, and to the precious Remains of His Majeſty's 73d Regiment; and, in general, to the Officers and Corps of His Majeſty's and the Company's Troops.

He deſires that Lieutenant-Colonel Wangenheim will inform the Officers and Men of the Detachment compoſed of His Majeſty's 15th and 16th Hanoverians, how much he was ſatisfied with their Behaviour on that Day, and that he will not fail, on the firſt Occaſion, to repreſent it to His Majeſty.

He

He desires also that the Officers of His Majesty's 101st Regiment, and the Grenadiers and Light Infantry of that Regiment, may know his Concern that they were not supported, as they ought to have been, by their Battalion Men on that Day.

In general, the Commander in Chief takes the present Occasion to acquaint the Army, that he has already informed the Government of their particular Merit in the Attack of the 13th, and that he will endeavour to represent it as it deserves to our Most Gracious Sovereign, and to our Country.

It has so happened, that on this very Day, when the Commander in Chief thought it his Duty to return his Thanks to this Army for the important Victory of the 13th, an Occasion offers to express his Satisfaction for a new and recent Display of their Steadiness and undaunted Courage in the successful Repulse of the Enemy's best regular and veteran Troops this Morning, in Sight of their Admiral and whole Fleet, taking the Colonel who commanded Prisoner, with the Loss of their principal Officers. The General can only repeat his sincere Acknowledgement and Admiration upon the Occasion, with his particular Thanks to Colonel Gordon, and to Lieutenant-Colonel Cathcart, to Captain Williamson, and the 24th Bengal Regiment.

The Commander in Chief desires the Commanding Officers of the Native Corps, Bengal and Carnatic, will, in his Name, acquaint the Officers and Men of the high Sense he entertains of their most gallant Behaviour on the 13th Instant and on this Morning, exceeding any Thing of the Kind ever known; and that he will, on every Occasion in his Power, represent it in such a Light to the Governments of Bengal and Madrass, that they, and their Families, shall be ever supported and rewarded according to their Merit.
